

Dr. Montserrat Mercadé obtained his Dentistry degree in 2002, hers Masters of Endodontics degree in 2005 (Universitat Internacional de Catalunya, Barcelona, Spain) and hers Ph.D in Dentistry Sciences at the Universitat Internacional de Catalunya (Barcelona, Spain) in 2008.

She was a member of the Restorative Dentistry and Endodontics department at Universitat Internacional de Catalunya (Barcelona, Spain) from 2006 to 2016, carrying out different tasks, namely coordinating the research of the department, teaching in undergraduate, postgraduate and doctoral programs, and directing the scientific commission of dentistry. In 2011 she was appointed Coordinator of the Dentistry Academic Commission of Doctorate, and in 2012, she began as the vice dean for Research of the Faculty of Dentistry. From 2016 to now, she is working in the Universitat de Barcelona (Barcelona, Spain; www.ub.edu) as a professor in the Adulthood Department and as the coordinator of the Endodontic postgraduate program. In 2017, she started the optional subject of Dental traumatology, and has been the coordinator since then. In 2018, she achieve a position of aggregate professor at the Universitat of Barcelona (Barcelona, Spain; www.ub.edu).

Her research interest focuses in the Endodontic field and in the dental traumatology field. She is author and co-author of 30 published articles in peer review journals indexed in JCR, from 2009 to now. Dr Mercade has given several lectures in different countries. She is member of the Spanish Endodontic Society (AEDE), European Society of Endodontology (ESE), International Association of Dental Traumatology (IADT). Dr Mercade has a private practice limited to endodontics and dental traumatology since 2005 in the city of Barcelona.